CIRF-WELL Project
Final Report

Sunnybrook & Women's College Campus, Environmental Health Clinic granted the Chemical Injury Relief Foundation (CIRF) $1500 on April 9, 2001 to undertake a project called Web Environmental Lifeskills Library (WELL) as part of the EHC Community Development Grant program.

The purpose was to build a web site to deliver information resources to help educate EHC patients and others with ESD, M.E. and or F.M. The site was built and went on line in April 2001. The CIRF-WELL site continues to operate and provides education about the issues around ESD, M.E. and F.M. to patients, the general public, employers, and any interested party as planned.

The CIRF-WELL Project was promoted as planned and has produced some distinction in the web health information community. HealingWell.com issued CIRF-WELL an editor's award. However, of even greater significance, is the listing with the Environmental Health Network in California. The owner of the EHN has listed CIRF's work in several places and with respect for the work on this project has included "CIRF/WELL, Chemical Injury Relief Foundation/Web Environmental Lifeskills Library, A must visit site! -- barb"
